ROOTED IN TRADITION, FOCUSED ON THE FUTURE.

Dear Friends of Snow College:

Since 1888, Snow College has proudly served as Utah's rural college, anchored in tradition, yet always moving forward. Today, I'm excited to share just a few of the ways we continue to grow and make a lasting impact.

Snow College remains a place where opportunity and affordability go hand in hand. With the lowest tuition in Utah, made possible by the dedicated backing of generous donors and committed legislators, our students save more than $20,000 on average over two years compared to the first two years at a Utah university. In fact, 77% of our students receive scholarships or financial aid, making the dream of higher education even more accessible.

We are especially proud that 60% of our students come from rural Utah, and 84% from within the state. These students bring grit, determination, and heart to everything they do. They go on to strengthen every corner of our state, country, and world. And they succeed. An impressive 85% of Snow College students either graduate or transfer, a rate nearly double the national average for two-year colleges.

This year, we launched an innovative partnership with Utah's technical colleges, offering new, flexible pathways for students to complete associate degrees in person or online (snow.edu/techconnect). It's one more way we're helping students build bright futures on their own terms—futures grounded in practical skills, professional credentials, and career readiness.

Workforce preparation and skill development are central to our mission. From general education to hands-on technical training, our programs equip students with the durable skills and tools they need to succeed in a rapidly changing economy.

As we celebrate our history, we are also focused on the future. This summer, our Board of Trustees and the Utah

Board of Higher Education approved a renewed mission for the college: We empower each student with a personalized path to success through comprehensive education, advanced technical training, and the confidence to create a thriving future. That personalized, confidence-building experience is what sets Snow apart.

To our alumni, community partners, legislators, faculty, staff, and friends—thank you. Your belief in Snow drives our progress and inspires everything we do.

Go Badgers!!

BADGERNEWS

OVER 200 STUDENTS HELP TOWN OF FOUNTAIN GREEN

SNOW COLLEGE STUDENTS LEND HOPE AND HELPING HANDS

September 10, 2024 – Ephraim, UT – Snow College students showed up for their community in a big way on Saturday, September 7, 2024. Fountain Green, located approximately 20 miles from the Snow College Ephraim campus, was still reeling after being hit with flooding after a massive thunderstorm covered the area on August 18, 2024. Officials estimated that roughly half of the homes in town were impacted, leaving many homes damaged.

Snow College Professor of Construction Technology David Barker organized the event. After talking with students, he hoped to have 40-50 show up to help, but they far surpassed his expectations and over 200 Snow College students gathered to help Fountain Green rebuild. As word about the event spread, more and more groups got involved. Students from across campus were excited for the chance to serve the community.

The students were split into two groups. The first group worked with Mayor Mark Combs to remove the sandbags that were placed weeks earlier. This was a huge effort made easier with all the helping hands. This group put in approximately six hours of labor hauling the heavy and dirty sandbags away. They did quite a bit to clean up the town and assist the residents.

The second group worked with Professor Barker to install sheetrock in homes that were damaged in the flooding. Ten teams were created, with a Construction Technology student leading each team. Most of the students had little to no experience, but each one had the desire to learn and help where they could. Each team removed old, damaged drywall and installed new drywall. Overall, the students installed more than 350 sheets of drywall in homes across town.

Professor Barker was impressed with the students who came to help. He said, “It was a whirlwind of a day, but the residents of Fountain Green were so appreciative. Our students were in good spirits and smiling the whole time as they worked hard throughout the day.”

ALUMNI GARETT AND NATALIE BOLLES VISIT CAMPUS

GARETT DELIVERED SPEECH AND SIGNED AUTOGRAPHS FOR STUDENTS AND COMMUNITY MEMBERS

February 21, 2025 – Ephraim, UT – Snow College was pleased to welcome Garrett and Natalie Bolles back to campus. The Bolles met at Snow College in 2014 when Garrett played football for the Badgers and Natalie was part of the cheer team. After two years at Snow, the couple then went to the University of Utah for one year before Garrett was scooped up by the Denver Broncos as a first-round draft pick in 2017. Garrett, who is still with the Broncos, is said to be the best left tackle in the National Football League (NFL).

During their visit to campus, Garrett spoke to the students and community, sharing his powerful story of perseverance and success. Following his presentation, attendees had the opportunity to meet Garrett in person and receive autographs.

In his speech, “Live Your Dream!”, Garrett also shared the mission of his foundation, GB3, which he established to support children and youth facing challenges with ADHD and other learning disabilities. Through GB3, he is dedicated to empowering them with the resources and encouragement they need to build a strong foundation for success and pursue their dreams. Garrett’s dedication to this cause was recognized in 2023 with a nomination for the prestigious Walter Payton Man of the Year award.

“We were thrilled to welcome Garrett and Natalie back to Snow College,” said President Stacey Yardley McCliff. “Their story is one of resilience, determination, and giving back. We are grateful for their inspirational message to our students and community.”

NEW PARTNERSHIP WITH SIX-COUNTY HIGH SCHOOLS

AREA SENIORS CAN OPT-IN TO AUTOMATIC ADMISSION TO SNOW COLLEGE

April 28, 2025 – Ephraim, UT – Snow College is excited to announce a new data-sharing partnership with regional school districts that will simplify the college admissions process for local students.

With parental consent, regional school districts will share the necessary information for admissions decisions directly with Snow College, eliminating the need for a traditional application for graduating seniors in the college's six-county service area. Students admitted through this process will automatically receive notifications of their admission and any academic scholarship awards.

Cody Branch, Vice President for Student Affairs and Enrollment Management at Snow College, is pleased about the collaboration with the school districts. He said, "We are grateful to each of the superintendents for their efforts in making this partnership possible. Their commitment to student success is very evident. We are excited to collaborate with them to expand college access for students across our six-county region. We hope this initiative will be especially meaningful for students who might not have seen college in their future, helping to boost their confidence as they receive admission notifications from Snow."

This new partnership will be implemented immediately. Parents are encouraged to opt-in to this service through the processes established by their respective districts to simplify the Snow College admissions process for their student.

CARNEGIE CLASSIFICATIONS RELEASED

SNOW COLLEGE RECOGNIZED AS AN “OPPORTUNITY COLLEGE”

June 10, 2025 – Ephraim, UT – Snow College has received national recognition in the newly released Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education, earning recognition one of the nation’s Opportunity Colleges and Universities. To be an Opportunity College, Snow College showed that it excels in providing educational pathways for students and that its graduates earn competitive wages. Only 16% of institutions in the nation received this honor, and Snow College is one of only two public institutions in Utah to be an Opportunity College.

“This recognition reaffirms the work Snow College is doing to open doors and provide life-changing opportunities for our students,” said Snow College Provost Michael Austin. “Being named an Opportunity College highlights our commitment to affordable, high-quality education that truly makes a difference in students’ lives and in our communities.”

The Institutional Classification places Snow College in the Mixed Associate Medium category. This classification is part of a broad effort to group similar colleges for analysis and benchmarking, using data from the U.S. Department of Education’s Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS).

The Carnegie Classifications, maintained by the American Council on Education (ACE), are widely used to better understand the U.S. higher education landscape. The new Student Access and Earnings framework is designed to recognize colleges that are excelling in creating equitable outcomes for students and strengthening economic mobility.

The Malt Shop has been a favorite hang-out spot for students since 1950. Below, Karl and Jolene Nielson, Brady and Bradie Crane

THEN AND NOW: THE MALT SHOP

By Carlie Fowles

The Malt Shop originally opened in 1950 as a Dairy Queen and has been a beloved staple in Ephraim ever since. Karl and Jolene Nielson took over the business when their daughter, Bradie Crane, was just a senior in high school. At the time, Bradie had no idea she would one day become the owner of this nostalgic Sanpete landmark.

Karl and Jolene infused the business with values of community, friendship, and compassion. During his time serving in a Latter-day Saint Young Single Adult (YSA) bishopric, Karl often invited students over for ice cream on Sundays as a way to connect with and mentor them. Supporting and guiding young college students became one of the highlights of his time at the Malt Shop.

When Bradie got married, her husband supported the idea of someday taking over the business. When her parents decided to retire, Bradie knew it was the nudge she needed to step in and carry on the family tradition.

Today, Bradie is not only the proud owner of the Malt Shop but also is a group fitness instructor at Snow College. She loves keeping her students involved in the business and has brought her own modern touch to the shop while still honoring its legacy. Updates include offering gluten-free menu options, seasonal soups in the winter, and partnering with DoorDash for delivery. She jokes that the regulars can always tell when she's rearranged pictures or added new décor to the restaurant.

What Bradie loves most about the Malt Shop are the stories shared by Snow College alumni—how they had their first dates there, got engaged, or spent time after campus events. These cherished memories are part of what makes the Malt Shop more than just a restaurant; it's a place where community and tradition meet. During the 2024 football season, the Malt Shop introduced the “Reggie” shake to honor Reggie Frischknecht, a Sanpete native and Badger football star.

Many of the employees who once worked for Karl and Jolene now work for Bradie, and she's quick to acknowledge the important role they've played in ensuring a smooth transition. Their loyalty and dedication have been a key part of the shop's continued success.

One especially heartwarming tradition at the Malt Shop is the “Malt Shop Friends Cup.” This initiative helps cover meals for customers who may not be able to afford one. It was started by an anonymous patron who, with each visit, quietly donates to keep the fund going—a simple yet powerful act of kindness that reflects the spirit of the shop.

When asked if a third generation might one day take over the Malt Shop, Bradie laughed. Her 12-year-old daughter, Harper, already shows signs of being a budding entrepreneur. She loves helping out, offering suggestions, and putting her own creative spin on how things are run.

To alumni considering entrepreneurship or returning to a family-owned business, Bradie offers this advice: “Do it. Nothing comes easy, but putting in the work is worth it—and truly rewarding.”

For many students, the transition to college is as thrilling as it is daunting. The newfound independence comes with a host of responsibilities—balancing academics, social life, and mental well-being. At Snow College, a network of faculty, staff, and student mentors is dedicated to easing this transition, ensuring that students not only survive but thrive during their years as a Badger.

The Challenge of Independence

“Coming to a place like Snow makes that transition a lot easier,” notes Snow College President Stacey Yardley McIff. “We have caring and genuinely concerned staff

G THE COLLEGE TRANSITION:

HOW SNOW COLLEGE SUPPORTS STUDENTS AND HOW FAMILIES CAN HELP

in housing, our professors are approachable, and we have the First Year Experience (FYE) structure—all designed to help students transition successfully.”

McIff points out that adjusting to a new setting, often without knowing anyone, can be both exciting and intimidating. For many students, learning to manage their own schedule, navigate college expectations, and maintain their well-being presents a significant challenge.

Bryan Moulton, Director of Counseling & Wellness, has seen this pattern firsthand. “There’s a honeymoon phase,” he explains. “At first, there’s excitement about moving out and ‘adulthood,’ but after about a month, when assignments pile up and reality sets in, stress, anxiety, and even depression start to rise.”

A Strong Foundation: First-Year Experience (FYE) and Peer Mentoring

To ensure students don’t feel alone in this transition, the First Year Experience (FYE) program connects each new student with a peer mentor during the summer before school begins. These mentors check in regularly, both before and during the school year, answering questions about everything from housing to time management.

“Historically, we waited for students to come to us,” says Brittany Cornelsen, Director of the Student Connection Center. “Now, we take a proactive approach—helping students navigate everything from registering for classes to finding community on campus.”

Dedicated Peer Mentors also run Monday Moments and Wednesday Study Breaks, giving students an easy way to meet people and get involved without any pressure. These gatherings mix casual social time with helpful tips on navigating college life, whether it’s finding the best study spots, managing stress, or just making new friends. They’re designed to be fun, low-key, and welcoming—perfect for anyone looking to feel more at home on campus.

Gaining a Competitive Edge: Résumé-Worthy Experiences from Day One

One of Snow College’s unique advantages is its small size, which allows students to gain meaningful experience earlier than they might at larger institutions. McIff emphasizes that Snow’s structure creates numerous opportunities for students to engage in leadership roles, internships, and hands-on learning experiences from the start of their college journey.

“Because we are a two-year institution, our students aren’t competing with upperclassmen for leadership positions, student employment, and other experiential learning opportunities,” she explains. “This gives them an incredible advantage when they transfer or enter the workforce.”

Whether it’s student government, research projects, campus jobs, or club leadership, Snow College ensures students get real experience from the start. These opportunities don't just pad résumés—they help students build confidence, figure out what they enjoy, and get a head start on their careers.

By jumping in early, students make the most of their time on campus and set themselves up for success down the road. As President McIff puts it, "Part of transitioning to college is taking the initiative to find these opportunities, but at Snow, you don't have to look very far."

Mental and Emotional Well-Being: Counseling and Wellness Support

According to Rachelle Holbrook, Prevention Specialist at the Counseling & Wellness Center, anxiety and depression are the top two concerns among students seeking support. The Wellness Center offers therapy, workshops, and even social activities designed to combat isolation. "We've learned that many students struggle with making connections," Holbrook says. "We hold events but also attend events, looking for students who seem disconnected and inviting them to engage."

One such initiative is Badger Connect, a program that provides students with opportunities to gather for lunch, socialize, and form friendships.

Sophomore and Healthy

Badger Advocate Sam Olsen highlights how small efforts make a big impact: "Last year, I barely knew my roommates. But I learned that just making an effort to talk to people helps. Our events help students step out of their comfort zones."

Serving Every Student

For many students, especially those who are the first in their family to attend college, adjusting to campus life can be daunting. Fernando Montano, Student Connection Center Coordinator, understands this challenge firsthand.

"As a first-generation student, I came to the Snow campus three times before I had the courage to walk inside and ask for help," Montano recalls. "That experience shaped how I work with students today."

The Student Connection Center helps all students find resources for financial aid, academic support, and campus involvement. "We want every student to feel like they belong here," Montano says. "Whether they need help navigating college processes or just someone to talk to, we're here to support them."

What Families Can Do to Help

While Snow College offers a wealth of support, parents and grandparents also play a crucial role in helping students adjust.

Moulton advises families to strike a balance between support and independence. "I don't necessarily agree with parents who just drop their kid off and reach out again at the end of the semester," he says. "But I've also had students whose parents track their every move. The best approach is to check in periodically without micromanaging."

For parents of first-generation or multicultural students, Montano stresses the importance of staying engaged. "A simple phone call can be incredibly grounding," he notes. "Encourage your student to take advantage of resources—scholarships, tutoring, peer mentors. We now even have a web page specifically for parents to help them stay informed."

Holbrook adds that teaching basic life skills before college is invaluable. "We've had students come in overwhelmed because they don't even know how to shop for groceries," she says. "Encouraging independence in small ways before they leave home can ease the transition."

Success Starts with Support

At Snow College, the focus is on customizing the student experience to ensure every individual finds their path. "We've been doing this for 137 years," McIff says proudly. "With 85% of our students either graduating or transferring—nearly double the national average for two-year schools—our approach works."

Whether through peer mentoring, wellness initiatives, or simply creating a welcoming environment, Snow College is committed to helping students navigate the challenges of college life. And with the right balance of institutional support and family encouragement, students can make the most of their time at Snow—building confidence, connections, and success for years to come.

CONNECTING LITERATURE AND THEATER FOR A POWERFUL PERFORMANCE

By Matthew Gowans

In her book The Human Condition, historian and philosopher Hannah Arendt writes that “[e]very activity performed in public can attain an excellence never matched in privacy; for excellence, by definition, the presence of others is always required.” Her words are a gentle reminder that our best work usually involves different people with diverse backgrounds and perspectives.

In Fall 2024, the Theater Department at Snow College put this idea into action. As they prepared to stage Persuasion, a play based on the novel by Jane Austen, professor and actor Jenn Chandler decided to approach the production a little differently. She reached out to two of her colleagues in the Literature Program, Maren Hyer and Hilary Withers, to help her and her students get a deeper understanding of the story and its characters. What followed was a campus-wide collaboration that not only resulted in the highest ticket sales for a non-musical play at Snow College but also illustrated the clear benefits of working across disciplines.

Working with others across disciplines, an activity often referred to as interdisciplinary collaboration, helps students learn and understand more effectively by connecting ideas between subjects. Students are encouraged to think more deeply and creatively as they discover how information is interrelated. It also teaches the importance of teamwork and prepares them to solve the challenges and real-world problems they might face in the future. As theater students at Snow College worked through Jane Austen’s novel with English professors, they began to see how literary analysis of a text could strengthen their performance skills.

This collaboration didn’t just benefit the theater students, however. The whole campus became involved. English faculty launched a book club for both students and professors. Librarians created a display of Austen’s works and hosted short performances by theater students. The Humanities Division invited Nick Mason, a British literature scholar from BYU, to speak at their seminar. The play’s adapter, local playwright Melissa Leilani Larson, even joined the book club and spoke at the college’s Convocation series. What started as a single production became a shared campus experience—a great example of how bringing different perspectives together can energize a community.

“I HAVE READ AUSTEN'S NOVEL DOZENS OF TIMES OVER THE YEARS, BUT READING IT WITH THE ACTORS, DESIGNERS, AND DIRECTOR OF ITS ADAPTATION CHANGED AND GREW MY EXPERIENCE OF THE NOVEL.”

That energy showed up on stage. Professor Chandler, finding a greater appreciation for Jane Austen’s world, said, “This ended up directly translating into our play, because I was able to help my student actors understand the class structure their characters were functioning in. This is a class structure that we don’t have here and could not have even come close to understanding without Maren and the other Lit teachers’ help.” With insight from the English faculty, theater students gained a better appreciation of the characters, setting, and social dynamics in Persuasion—one of Austen’s most mature and emotionally rich novels.

This collaborative effort didn’t just spark student engagement, it also enriched individual disciplines. Professor Hyer noted, “I have read Austen’s novel dozens of times over the years, but reading it with the actors, designers, and director of its adaptation changed and grew my experience of the novel.” In essence, theater had breathed life into literature, and literature lent depth to the stage.

The Fall 2024 production of Persuasion is just one example of what can happen when faculty look beyond their own areas of expertise. It inspired students, deepened learning, and reminded everyone involved why we do this work in the first place. It is one more way that Snow College empowers its students, inspires a love of learning, and lifts individuals and communities.

THE FUTURE IS BRIGHT WITH STRATEGIC REINVESTMENT

Snow College is once again showing what it means to be a student-focused, community-driven institution. With the recent approval of its strategic reinvestment plan by the Utah Board of Higher Education, the college is taking bold, forward-thinking steps to strengthen its academic and technical programs while staying true to its rural roots.

In response to House Bill 265, Snow College will reallocate nearly $1.7 million over the next three years. The approved plan now moves on to the state legislature for final review in September, but the work is already well underway.

Snow's faculty and staff took a central role in formulating the reinvestment plan. Guided by data, inspired by student needs, and shaped through collaboration with the Office of the Commissioner of Higher Education, lawmakers, and local industry partners, this plan reflects the values and priorities of Central Utah.

"Our goal has always been to give students a personalized path to success," said Snow College President Stacey Yardley McIff. "This reinvestment plan helps us do just that—offering career-focused opportunities in areas where we know our students can succeed and where our communities need them most."

The reinvestment centers around four key themes: aligning with workforce needs, improving operational efficiencies, supporting student success, and empowering rural communities. Programs that will receive new or expanded investment include:

- AUTOMATION TECHNOLOGY
- BEHAVIORAL HEALTH
- BIOLOGY AND LIFE SCIENCES
- COMMERCIAL DRIVER'S LICENSE (CDL)
- ELEMENTARY EDUCATION
- PRE-ARCHITECTURE AND DRAFTING
- PRISON EDUCATION
- RADIOLOGIC TECHNOLOGY
- RESPIRATORY THERAPY
- RURAL ENTREPRENEURSHIP
- STRATEGIC COMMUNICATION AND PUBLIC RELATIONS

"These programs weren't chosen at random," McIff added. "They reflect the real needs of our students, our region, and the state of Utah. From health care to education to high-tech trades, these are the fields that will define our future."

Board of Trustees Chair Rick Robinson shared his confidence in the college's direction. "Snow College's impact on our region cannot be overstated," he said. "These initiatives ensure that we remain relevant, responsive, and ready for the future. Our students, communities, and the entire state will benefit."

As Snow College looks ahead, one thing is clear: this isn't just about reallocating dollars. It's about reimagining possibilities—for students, families, and rural Utah as a whole.

OUR MISSION:

We empower each student with a personalized path to success through comprehensive education, advanced technical training, and the confidence to create a thriving future.

The Utah Board of Higher Education approved an updated mission statement for the college on June 6, 2025. The new statement, which includes the dual mission of Snow College to provide both degree-granting and technical education, highlights the school's unique ability to provide a personalized education for each student. The update was the result of a collaborative effort by a task force of faculty and staff, who reviewed data and gathered input from across campus before drafting the statement. After refinement and approval by the Snow College Board of Trustees, the updated mission will serve as a guiding framework for the college's future.

SNOW COLLEGE VISUAL ARTS:

by Adam Larsen

The visual arts have been a pillar of Snow College from its founding in 1888. Utah artist CCA Christensen is credited as the first art teacher at the College from circa 1896-1898. At that time, classes were held in the upper level of the original Snow College Academy in the Ephraim Co-op building, which now serves as the Alumni Center. Christensen's log cabin studio still stands adjacent east of the Granary Art Center on Main Street and is utilized as a gallery space for contemporary artists. The next 80 years of art at Snow brought a rotating door of faculty, evolving art instruction, and an array of modernist movements. It wasn't until the early 1970s that Snow College Visual Arts began to gain recognition as a destination for budding artists.

In 1966, alumnus Osral Allred began teaching math and engineering classes at Snow College. As a true Renaissance man, he also had background in these areas. By the early 1970s, Allred had transitioned into teaching art full time. In the summer of 1974, he was joined by Carl Purcell, who had recently completed his MFA at BYU. Purcell had met Allred previously at an exhibition reception, and recalled admiring his drawing and watercolor work. This chance meeting led to Purcell's hire and sparked a 25-year legacy of collaboration between the two men.

During Allred and Purcell's tenure, the department moved away from craft-type courses such as macrame, batik, and hook rug, as the department began strategizing a more effective arts curriculum with a focus on drawing and watercolor. Purcell recounted his early years of struggling to teach drawing: "Drawing is the seed for everything. Why are all of my students having the same problem? If I can draw, anybody can—I don't have any talent." He began to study brain research to better understand the drawing process: How does the eye receive visual stimuli? How does the brain interpret that information? How does the hand respond? Why do most students use symbols as visual shorthand?

THE ENDURING THREAD OF 50 YEARS

These questions led Purcell to a philosophy of drawing based on shape, summarized by the principle: “Draw what you see, not what you think you see.” He attributes this research—and his collaborations with Allred—to the program’s success. Purcell later published two books sharing his breakthroughs in drawing and watercolor.

During these years, art courses were taught in a repurposed one-story World War II barracks building from Topaz, Utah, relocated on campus years earlier—ironically—by Carl Purcell’s father. Located directly south of the Noyes building, the Art Barn became the creative nucleus of the visual arts on campus. Clad with local barnwood and an eclectic 1970s interior design sensibility, this space became adored by thousands of art students over the next three decades as the department grew into a destination for students interested in ceramics, drawing, jewelry making, painting, and other creative pursuits.

In 1974, Allred and Purcell developed a summer program to supplement regular courses, introducing it as Summer Snow. The programing was initially designed to emphasize dynamic composition in drawing and watercolor. Summer Snow became an institution for hundreds of participants from the region, eager for a retreat to hone their craft. Purcell recalls, “I’ve had students tell me that they learned more from two weeks of Summer Snow than in all four years of art training at the university.” Allred and Purcell taught this program together, often inviting other watercolor painters to participate as visiting artists, until Allred’s retirement in December 2000. Allred taught one final Summer Snow workshop in 2013 shortly before he lost his battle with ALS (Lou Gehrig’s Disease) and passed away in February 2014.

Summer Snow expanded its studio offerings in the early 2000s. It continues today as a dynamic, focused, intensive visual arts workshop experience, bringing together hundreds of alumni, art educators, professional artists, and current students to experience new processes, enhance their skills, and network with other creative minds in a respite from their normal life each June.

Carl Purcell retired from Snow College in May 2004 as Professor Emeritus and continues to teach drawing part-time for Snow College Visual Arts. He remains a sought-after and passionate watercolor instructor, teaching workshops around the world—from Zion National Park to the Scottish Highlands. He has consistently taught both weeks of Summer Snow every year since his retirement. At 81 years old, Purcell stands as the enduring thread that connects the last 50 years of Snow College Visual Arts. As he puts it, “Art keeps us alive.”

The department was eventually relocated from the Art Barn to its current location in the Humanities and Arts building as Snow College Visual Arts continued to expand and evolve. Faculty additions diversified offerings into figurative studies, photography, printmaking, sculpture, and time-based media. The current faculty continue to build on the department’s rich heritage, carrying forward the vision of Allred, Purcell, and the early art teachers, while shaping its future through ongoing contributions as professional artists, curators, critics, and mentors.

Today, Snow College Visual Arts has a reputation of being one of the finest programs in the region. The Associate of Fine Arts (AFA) in Visual Studies degree prepares students for successful transfer to senior institutions, fully prepared to articulate into competitive BFA programs, or to enter the creative industry. The rigorous AFA program fosters 25-30 students annually and the department generally supports 100+ declared art majors. A hybridized approach at learning, encouraging analog and digital tools and processes in the studio, has greatly enhanced how young artists respond to and create within the visual world. The department concurrently enriches the lives of hundreds of non-major students with robust contributions to General Education programing. Visual arts students are honed into dynamic problem solvers, project managers, and interdisciplinary thinkers. The department strives to cultivate a creative and robust student community and promotes the philosophy, and the title of the annual student art exhibition, Artists in Residence/ Works in Progress.

Snow College Visual Arts continues to be a catalyst for career success. Graduates have pursued careers as animators, architects, graphic designers, freelance artists, industrial designers, photographers, and more, while many alumni are now educators in universities and schools across the country. This enduring success is rooted in 50 years of dedicated faculty contributions, adaptability to change, and a tradition of excellence that empowers students to envision their future and contribute to the creative industry.

SNOW TRAVELS

This Spring the Art Travel Seminar visited Paris, France, where students experienced historically significant works of art and Parisian culture first-hand. Highlights included celebrated and lesser-known masterpieces at the Louvre, Orsay, and Modern Art museums; the extravagant French Baroque interior of the Palace of Versailles; the exquisite stained glass of Sainte-Chapelle and the Basilica du Sacré-Cœur, and the breath-taking sight of the newly restored Notre Dame Cathedral.

"Pausing and talking with faculty during the Art Travel Seminar helped me remember why I am going to school. It helped me express what I really feel as an artist and human. It was a growing and bonding experience that I will never forget." — Cadience Manchego, Associate of Fine Arts student

"My travel experience was elevated because I was with my peers, who genuinely loved and appreciated the art we had come to see. It was almost like a spiritual pilgrimage for us. I would encourage all art students to aspire to travel with fellow art students at some point in their education; the difference is unbelievably valuable." — Shelby Magnusson, Associate of Fine Arts student

TUNISIA

This spring, ten students from Snow College had the opportunity to travel to Tunisia as part of a unique study abroad program. The course, Global Inquiry Abroad and Rural Entrepreneurship, combined classroom learning with real-world experience in a vibrant, international setting. Funded in part by an IDEAS grant, the trip gave students a chance to explore rural innovation while gaining a deeper understanding of global issues. The GRIT Center and the Center for Global Engagement collaborated on this high-impact experiential learning project. From visiting local businesses to engaging with the community, the experience offered lasting insights and unforgettable memories.

ROME

Snow College students traveled to Rome, Italy, over spring break as part of a bioethics course. This opportunity coincided with the annual meeting of the Pontifical Academy for Life. Students engaged with world-renowned bioethicists on subjects ranging from discrimination in assistance-in-dying laws, the ethics of neural implant devices, and the role of religion in medical decision-making. Other activities included visits to an ancient temple dedicated to the Greek and Roman god Asclepius, a medieval hospital, and the Capuchin Crypt. After returning, students presented their projects at the Utah Academy of Science, Arts, and Letters conference and in forums across campus.

Psychology students present and learn at national conference.

The Snow College Psychology Program took 31 students to Denver to attend the Rocky Mountain Psychological Association Conference this year. This is a tremendous opportunity for our students. Many of them presented their own original research – which is astounding at the freshmen and sophomore level. But even those not presenting had the opportunity to hear about new research and practice in psychology from some of the most prominent people in the field. Students were able to network with other students and faculty from their prospective schools, and even be recruited by graduate programs.

MEXICO

During Spring Break, Snow College students left freezing Utah temperatures behind to embark on a week-long cruise to Mexico for the Business Travel Seminar, led by President McIff. These global Badgers witnessed the La Bufadora geyser, explored Mexican street markets, and experienced the beautiful views on Catalina Island.

While on the cruise ship, the students enjoyed delicious 3-course meals; participated in activities like karaoke, rock climbing, silent dance parties, and volleyball; went on a behind-the-scenes tour of the ship; and spent time in the pools, hot tubs, and water slides. All this while learning about human resources, operations and supply chain management, marketing, and many more business principles.

EMPOWERING FUTURES: CELEBRATING TECHNICAL EDUCATION

by Heidi Stringham and Becky Callister

On April 10, the Sevier Valley Center became a hub of celebration and inspiration as it hosted the third annual Technical Education Scholarship Award Night. This noteworthy event was designed specifically to engage high school seniors who may not see themselves pursuing post-secondary education or training after graduation. With a mission to illuminate pathways and opportunities, the evening underscored the crucial partnerships between educational institutions and industries in fostering the next generation of skilled professionals.

This year, 57 deserving students were awarded $1,000 scholarships. Of those recipients, 42 were in attendance and were recognized for their hard-working spirit and commitment to their futures. The event boasted an attendance of approximately 230 guests—ranging from students and their families to educators, administrators, and various representatives from industry partners. Vice President of Technical Education and Workforce Development Jay

Olsen opened the evening with heartfelt congratulations, emphasizing the achievements of the recipients and the importance of technical education. Snow College President Stacey Yardley McIff further inspired the attendees by sharing uplifting insights about the vast possibilities that lie ahead for these aspiring students.

An exciting aspect of the evening was the career-pathway displays, where instructors from Snow College collaborated with their industry partners to showcase the careers and training opportunities available to students through the college and local businesses. These interactive displays provided attendees with valuable insights into various career paths, allowing students to visualize their futures and understand how they could fit into the workforce.

The evening saw an impressive representation from 11 out of 12 high schools in the central Utah Region, including Tintic, Juab, Delta, Millard, North Sanpete, Manti, Gunnison, North Sevier, Richfield, South Sevier, and Piute. This diverse attendance highlighted the program's reach and the collective effort to support students from all backgrounds.

A significant factor in this successful collaboration is the strong partnership between K-12 education systems, Snow College, and local industries. This year's event was supported by well-respected industry partners, such as Bar M Towing, Fierce Firearms, Christensen Arms, Design Line Tool, and Wolverine Fuels. Their active involvement provided not only financial assistance but also valuable mentorship and networking opportunities, helping to bridge the gap between education and employment.

Reflecting on the evening, Lori Miller, the Work-Based Learning Coordinator for Manti and Gunnison Valley High Schools, shared her thoughts: "The whole evening was so incredible, and I was totally impressed with the quality of everything—from the industry partners to the great food. Making the students feel truly special was the highlight."

The Technical Education Scholarship Award Night is more than just an award ceremony; it represents a vision where students recognize their potential and are empowered to carve their futures through education, training, and valuable community support. As this collaboration continues to grow, it promises to inspire countless students to pursue their dreams with confidence and opportunity at their fingertips.

BUILT FOR GREATNESS:

A DECADE OF GROWTH IN SNOW COLLEGE ATHLETICS

By Drayson Ball

Snow College boasts an ever-growing athletics program that has developed into a recognizable powerhouse within the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA).

Since 2016, Snow College has nearly doubled the number of NJCAA-sponsored sports offered to athletes nationwide. In addition to football, volleyball, men's and women's basketball, rodeo, softball, cheer, and the Badgerettes, Snow College has introduced programs for both men and women in soccer, cross country, and wrestling, including the only collegiate women's wrestling program in the state of Utah.

During that time, these new programs have achieved impressive athletic milestones. Soccer has garnered five conference championships, seven region championships, and one district championship. In just three years, the wrestling teams have produced 24 All-Americans, including a national champion in women's wrestling.

The new programs have also achieved great academic success. Following the conclusion of the 2023-24 academic year, the athletic department saw a school-record 96 student-athletes named to the NJCAA All-Academic Teams, including 43 from the soccer and wrestling programs.

Of the six new athletic programs, four are stationed on the Richfield campus. This decision was made to enhance the campus experience and boost enrollment by expanding general education opportunities in Richfield, in addition to the technical education classes currently offered.

Snow College has supported the increased number of student-athletes in a myriad of ways, such as building the Bergeson Athletic Center in 2019, hiring a second full-time athletic trainer and strength and conditioning coach. Numerous sports medicine internships have allowed Snow College student-athletes to train and recover better than ever before.

Hiring a full-time academic advisor for student-athletes has also made a noticeable impact. With personalized academic planning and a stronger emphasis on academic success, student-athletes are better equipped to stay on track, transfer smoothly, and find success at four-year institutions after graduation.

Students attending Snow College had the opportunity to attend 75 home events throughout the 2024-25 athletic season. The Badgers' "Rowdy Crowd" provides a strong home-field advantage and helps Snow College rank among the nation's leaders in attendance.

Whether it is adding opportunities for more student-athletes to attend the school or enhancing the experience of those already enrolled, Snow College continues to be a beacon of athletic and academic success.

SNOW COLLEGE MEN'S BASKETBALL

COMPLETES HISTORIC 2024-2025 SEASON

By Shannon Allred

Before most Americans had even defrosted their Thanksgiving turkey, the Snow College men's basketball team was starting the best winning streak in program history. Fast forward nearly three months, and the number one team in the nation found itself the winner of 25 games in a row and had claimed the Scenic West Athletic Conference (SWAC) Championship, the Region 18 Tournament Championship, and, for the first time in school history, the West District Championship.

The team finished with a 32-2 overall record and went undefeated in conference play. While their bid for the NJCAA National Championship was cut short in a devastating loss to Connors State, the 2024-2025 season will go down as a season for the ages. Their dominance extended beyond team honors with a record 13 Player of the Week awards earned throughout the season.

Sophomore guard Isaac Finlinson joined the 1000-point club. Finlinson is the fifth player in school history to achieve this honor. Finlinson also swept the National Player of the Year honors from the NJCAA, NABC, and JUCO Jam – a first for any Snow College athlete.

Head Coach Andrew May was named SWAC Coach of the Year, West District Coach of the Year, and JUCO Jam National Coach of the Year, underscoring his unparalleled leadership - inspiring the team to new heights.

“This group of players and coaches has redefined what’s possible at Snow College,” said Rob Nielson, Snow College Athletic Director. “Their work ethic, unity, and relentless pursuit of excellence were on display every single game. Coach May and his staff not only built a championship team, they built a culture that will inspire future Badgers for years to come.”

THE INAUGURAL SNOW COLLEGE LEGACY BANQUET AND AWARDS

By Nathan Bradley

Snow College proudly announces the inaugural Snow College Legacy Banquet and a reimagined alumni and emeriti awards program, celebrating the enduring legacy of our Badger community. This historic first year strengthens our commitment to recognizing alumni and emeriti whose excellence, leadership, and dedication embody the Spirit of Snow. As former director James A. Nuttall declared in 1938, Snow College boasts “a strong and loyal alumni group,” a foundation we build upon as we stand on the shoulders of those who came before us. From the historic Co-op Building on Main Street—now the vibrant Alumni Center for Snow College—our alumni, emeriti, and students remain the pulse that makes Snow College, Snow. Through this inaugural event, we celebrate this legacy and inspire a thriving future.

The Snow College Legacy Banquet, debuting this year, expands the tradition of our Distinguished Alumni ceremony to honor both alumni and, for the first time, our emeriti—former faculty, staff, and retirees who represent the beating heart of Snow College. These awards celebrate the diverse contributions that have shaped our institution’s legacy of academic excellence and community strength, inspiring future generations to carry forward the Spirit of Snow.

The Legacy Banquet will take place on Friday, October 10, 2025, in Founders Hall of the Noyes Building on our Ephraim campus—celebrating our shared heritage and bright future. The Alumni Legacy Award (Golden Badgers) will be presented at the Golden Badger Reunion on Saturday, October 11, 2025, in the same historic venue.

Distinguished Alumni Award

This prestigious award, unchanged in its essence, honors Snow College graduates with a lifetime of extraordinary achievement, leadership, and transformative impact in their fields or communities. Eligible alumni inspire others with excellence and purpose.

Rising Alumni Award

Recognizing young alumni from the past 20 years, this award celebrates innovation, leadership, and early-career impact. Eligible graduates embody Snow’s values, inspiring future generations with their bold contributions.

Alumni Legacy Award (Golden Badgers)

This award honors alumni who graduated 50+ years ago for their career achievements, mentorship, or contributions to Snow College. Presented at the Golden Badger Reunion, it celebrates those who have shaped our enduring legacy.

Spirit of Snow Award (Alumni and Emeriti)

This cherished award, given annually to one recipient or shared, honors alumni or emeriti for selfless service, philanthropy, or contributions that strengthen Snow College’s community and mission, uniting us in purpose.

These awards reflect the leadership that drives Snow College forward, building on the strength of our alumni, emeriti, and students. We urge our Alumni Association and Badger community to nominate deserving individuals at snow.edu/alumni/award or by scanning the QR code on the facing page. Your nominations will honor those who have shaped our past and empower visionaries to lead Snow College into a thriving future.

LEAVE YOUR LEGACY – IT'S EASIER THAN YOU THINK!

SIMPLY INCLUDE A FEW SENTENCES IN YOUR WILL OR TRUST.

Many of our scholarship endowment funds have been established with estate gifts from our caring friends. You can leave a legacy at Snow College through a provision in your estate plan. You can structure your bequest to leave a specific amount of cash, securities, or property, make the gift contingent on certain events, or leave a percentage of your estate to benefit students.

The official legal bequest language for Snow College is: "I, [name], of [city, state, ZIP], give, devise and bequeath to the Snow College Foundation, a body politic and corporate of the State of Utah, [written amount or percentage of the estate or description of property] for its unrestricted use and purpose."

Individuals who include the College in their estate plans are invited to become members of our Founders Society. The Founders Society is a special group that recognizes donors who notify us of their thoughtful gift intentions through an estate provision, regardless of the amount.

SNOW COLLEGE FOUNDATION

PLEASE CONSIDER A CHARITABLE BEQUEST FOR SNOW COLLEGE STUDENTS TODAY..

For more information about joining the Founders Society or making a planned gift to Snow College, please contact Cameron Brooks at (435) 283-7062 or via email at giving@snow.edu. You can also visit Snow's planned giving website at www.snowlegacy.org, where you can find tools such as a free downloadable estate planning guide, free planned giving e-newsletter, helpful calculators, etc.

Snow College Founders Society

The Founders Society is a distinctive group of friends who carry on a tradition of philanthropy at Snow College by including the college in their estate plans. The college extends its deep appreciation to these individuals who make their thoughtful gift intentions through charitable bequests, life income plans, insurance gifts, and charitable trusts. For more information on the Founders Society, please contact Snow College Foundation at 435-283-7060.
