Semesters Offered: Fall

Credit/Time Requirement: Credit: 4; Lecture: 5; Lab: 0

Clock/Hour Requirements: 0

Offered for Non-Credit: No

Justification:

This course helps satisfy the language requirement for the A.A. degree. It is a prerequisite for intermediate and advanced study of the language. It may be credited towards the General Education requirements of most schools to which Snow College students transfer. Students are introduced to the language, cultures, and values of French-speaking peoples, one of the largest linguistic groups in the world and a major contributor to Western thought and culture. Learning French, particularly in combination with studies in other fields, such as art, music, philosophy, business, medicine, political science, social science, and technology, can provide a valuable and employable life resource.

Student Learning Outcomes:

Students will have a grasp of basic French grammar, pronunciation and vocabulary. They will acquire speaking/ listening skills at the approximate novice-high/intermediate-low level, and reading/writing skills at the approximate novice-mid level of the proficiency guidelines of the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages (ACTFL). They will have a basic knowledge of cultural traditions, customs, and values. Students will be able to perform basic, yet meaningful communicative tasks in French. They will be comfortable working with either the written or spoken language. Students will be prepared to enroll in French 1020 or another second-semester French course. As a result of learning about French cultures, students will increase their appreciation and understanding of their own culture and language as well as increase their appreciation and understanding of French-speaking cultures and the French language. Students will also feel a desire to continue educating themselves, formally or informally, in areas such as history, geography, languages, and literature.

Content:

The topics covered in French 1010 include but are not limited to:

- Basic interactions like greetings, asking and answering questions, describing people and possessions, expressing preferences

General Education Outcomes:

1) Read effectively, constructively, and critically.

Students are required to read and interpret various formats and levels of text on a basic level, thus acquiring and implementing reading skills that will allow them to be effective and efficient readers in French. Questions are designed not only to verify text comprehension, but to elicit more critical thinking (e.g., What similarities do you see between the ethnic and racial makeup of France and the U.S.? What differences? How might you account for both the similarities and the differences?)

2) Write clearly, informatively, and persuasively.

Students are required to write various formats of text (e.g., short letters, descriptions of people and activities, schedules) on a basic level, thus acquiring and implementing writing skills that will allow them to be effective and efficient writers in French.

3) Speak effectively in a variety of contexts.

Students are required to produce and interpret various formats of oral language (e.g., informal conversation, announcements, descriptions, songs) on a basic level, thus acquiring and implementing speaking skills that will allow them to be effective and efficient in both their production and comprehension of spoken French.

4) Retrieve, evaluate, interpret, and deliver information through a variety of traditional and electronic media.

Students utilize various traditional and electronic media in the course of their French acquisition process, including the Internet, email, videos, CDs, DVD, and classroom text materials. Students communicate with native speakers and/or near-native speakers through the medium of email, and utilize assigned web sites to enhance their acquisition of French in specific areas.

5) Apply a cultural and historical awareness to a variety of phenomena.

Students are assigned readings, discussions, and other assignments that require reflection on multiple cultures and analysis of underlying similarities between cultures. They are required to explore the basis for cultural traditions, customs, music, and art. They are able to appreciate similarities and differences across cultures. Such study can also lead to more informed and less ethnocentric discussions about current events and/or seasonal topics.

9) Respond with informed sensitivity to an artistic work or experience.

Students study of French and the cultures of French-speaking peoples allows them to recognize and appreciate a wide range of French influences across many genres and media of art thus enabling much broader interpretations of works of art and/or experiences.
