

MUSC 2020

Division: Fine Arts

Department: Music

Course: MUSC 2020

Title: MUSIC HISTORY AND LITERATURE II

Catalog Description:

This is an entry level course for music majors and an elective course for those desiring a comprehensive background in music literature. It will cover music throughout history and the relationship of music to the other arts. This course includes the chronological study of music from the Romantic Era through the 20th Century. This is the continuation course to MUSC 2010.

General Education Requirements: Fine Arts

Semesters Offered: Spring

Credit/Time Requirement: Credit: 3; Lecture: 3; Lab: 0

Clock/Hour Requirements: 0

Offered for Non-Credit: No

Justification:

This course is a necessary prerequisite for the music major transferring to a four year program at any of the State's four year universities. It also fulfills a general education requirement for the non-music major.

Student Learning Outcomes:

Students will write papers that reflect a basic knowledge of music history. Students will be able to identify audio examples of music literature. Students will complete written tests that include short answer questions, essays, and score analysis.

Content:

Course content will include the study of a music history text, music scores, and audio examples. The course will focus on the major style periods, influential composers, and music's role in human culture.

General Education Outcomes:

2) Write clearly, informatively, and persuasively.

Students write weekly papers on music history topics. The papers are reviewed and edited by two classmates. Revisions are made and papers are then submitted. Following corrections by the instructor, students are encouraged to share ideas and corrected aspects with the two students who edited the paper.

9) Respond with informed sensitivity to an artistic work or experience.

Using a score anthology, students listen to music CDs that accompany material in the class text. Listening quizzes are then administered four times during the course of the semester. After hearing a short portion of a musical work, students are required to write the name of the composition and composer. Students also write weekly papers that discuss musical aspects of these same works.

Key Performance Indicators:

Students will be graded on the following criteria: weekly writing assignments (30%), tests (50%), and listening quizzes (20%). Percentages are approximate.

Representative Text and/or Supplies:

A History of Western Culture by Mark E. Bonds. Pearson Education. Current ed.
