Wyatt's selection comes after a national search which considered 24 applicants representing 10 states. A search committee comprised of 22 individuals representing the Regents, Snow Trustees, faculty, staff, students, and community members selected six finalists who were announced Monday.

"I would like to thank Interim President Rick Wheeler for the strong leadership he has provided to Snow College," said Board of Regents Chair Jed Pitcher. "Snow College plays an important role as a community college in central Utah. The two campuses, in Ephraim and Richfield, are critical in training our future workforce and providing educated citizenry to the growing economy in this area of our state. Scott will enhance the partnerships that exist between the campuses and stakeholders in the community. He will ensure that Snow's students receive a world-class education and college experience."

In accepting this appointment Wyatt said, "This appointment is the greatest honor of my life. Kathy and I love Snow College and look forward to serving the College's students, staff, and faculty."
